Turkish line of communication be-Smyrna and the Dardanelles, over which the Turks were transporting troops, guns and supplies, has been cut by the destruction of a railway bridge by British aviators operating from the Anglo-French fleet, it is stated in a disputch from Athens today.

A telegram to the Daily Mail says: 'The allied troops, after a series of short engagements in which the Turks lost heavily, captured the heights facing Sousin Dere fort on the Gallipoli peninsula. These heights lie four miles west of Killd Rahr and their possession promises the speedy reduction of Sousin Dere. which covers Killd Bahr."

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 7. The annihilation of a battalion of the Allies' troops by Turks in the fighting on the Dardanelles is announced in the following official statement given out "In the Dardanelles fighting an enemy battalion was annihilated on May 5. As a result of our attack against the Allies' left wing, near Avi Burnu, part of their strong entrenchments were taken. More than 190 rifles and one machine gun were taken. In our operations on the night of May 5 against Sed-El-Bahr the Turks inflicted heavy losses upon the English. Three machine guns and a quantity of ammunition were captured. Altogether we captured 10 machine guns."

Italy has been warned of the consequences of entering the war on the side of the Allies. Austria has apparently given up all hope of averting a conflict with Italy. An uncensored dispatch from Vienna received here announces that the proposed mission of Count Goluchowski, former Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was expected to reach Rome yesterday, has been abandoned. It has been believed that Count Goluchowski was to be the bearer of Austria's reply to Italy's demand for a clear statement of the position of the dual monarchy regarding the cession of territory to Italy in re-turn for continued neutrality.

The abandonment of this mission is interpreted here to mean that Austria realizes that it would be useless and that even an offer of further concessions to Italy would be powerless to prevent the armed intervention of this country on the side of the Entente Powers. The rupture of Austro-Italian diplomatic re-lations is now regarded as inevitable and likely to occur not later than May 12. Officials Refuse to Abandon Hope for Peaceful Settlement.

The Cardidate was about is miles off
Waterford Harbor when a German submarine suddenly appeared on the surface of the water. A torpede was fired without any warning, and a big hole was knocked in the Candidate's hull below the waterline. As she began to settle the crew took to the boats and rowed away. In the meantime the submarine had sub-merged herself. After rowing for some time the seamen were picked up by the Grinsby trawler Lord Allendale, off Co-

Now the men are jubliant over his return. He has vindicated their faith in him. They are feeding him and petting him and putting him through his tricks. "Dynamite's the smartest dog in the city of Philadelphia," said one of the men, "and the most devoted. He'll die if they put him away from here. It's a long way from Wawa to the city and he has had to beat his way back. Heaven knows how he got here, but I believe if they took him to 'Frisco he would beb back again. Maybe if we muzzle him we'd be able to keep him."

In the meantime Dynamite's uitimate fate depends on Chief Murphy. Will he remain the faithful guardian of No. 32, or will he be put away again?
